

I CAN'T, BECAUSE....

Al Brown

Did you hear about the fellow who said he was afraid to quit smoking? Someone asked him why, and he said, "The last time I quit they bombed Pearl Harbor!" That was like saying, "I can't attend Ladies' Bible Class (or Sunday morning Bible study, etc.) because they tore down the Berlin Wall," or some such foolishness. Of course, if a person is just trying to think up an excuse to avoid doing what he does not want to do, it really doesn't make much difference what he says, does it? One excuse is as good as another. The chances are, however, slim to none that the Lord will accept such silliness. How will you excuse your unfaithfulness?
