

ABC CONDONES AND ATTEMPTS TO NORMALIZE A PERVERTED FATHER

David P. Brown

On Tuesday night, July 19, 2009 ABC's Primetime Family Secrets aired. It featured a father, Ted Prince, who underwent a sex change. He became "she" last year and changed from Ted to "Chloe." Nevertheless, his wife remained with him; although now he is "she" and it would be "her" wife remaining with "her" rather than she with him.

The couple have two sons, ages seven and six. Of course the two boys are adjusting to the big change in their lives. Commenting on their efforts to adjust, ABC's Juju Chang said, "Now, developmental psychologists will tell you that if you have honest, open, frank and age-appropriate conversations, the boys will be just fine." What "developmental psychologists"—secular, materialists, atheistic organic evolutionists' psychologists? Did Ted's genetics change when the surgeon finish his cosmetic whittling? Indeed, it did not. By what standard does one conclude that the boys are "fine"? About his father's confusion one of the boys explained, "She had a girl inside her and so she went on a surgery to get, get it out." Indicating a family photo, the young fellow added, "And this is our other mom that used to be a dad." And those comments are normal and those boys "will be just fine." As one person wrote: "How sad that because of their father's narcissistic gender-disorientation pathology, these boys will grow up without a father. And, shame on ABC for glorifying and attempting to normalize it" If this is not a clear cut case of calling evil good, what would it take to have such a case?
